1. IPC PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

Dear Friends,

It seems timely to send another Newsletter as there have been some developments since the last one in March.

The CP committee has now formed a sub-committee to review and rewrite the Competition Rules as suggested. This is a good positive step and I am hopeful of a new set of rules that will withstand the finest scrutiny, which is an important requirement for the international parachuting sporting body.

You may have recently noticed that FAI has cancelled a number of CP record claims. Apparently many of these claims were made without the performer's knowledge and some were from events that could not qualify for competition records. Following a lack of follow-up response by NACs to reminders a request to cancel the claims was sent by the initiator. The unintended consequence was that at least one claim which was being pursued was prematurely cancelled and attempts are being made by the performer's NAC to resurrect it. This unilateral action resulted in considerable unnecessary work both at FAI level and elsewhere.

Nevertheless, there are issues with the present FAI records homologation procedures and the Bureau is looking at ways it can assist the FAI in streamlining the process. The Bureau will be meeting near the offices of the Dutch Parachute Federation on 30 May to 01 June. Review of the IPC Strategic Plan and its implementation will be the main agenda item along with other issues that have arisen since the Plenary meeting.

I have reported separately on my recent visit to the PIA Symposium. This visited coincided with a USPA Board meeting which I was invited to attend in parts. My report contains a sequel to the issue of the Alan Eustace Stratosphere record claim issue, whereby the NAA altered data in the FAI Official Observer's dossier before submission to FAI, without notice to the observer. This was resolved during the course of the Symposium and it was a pleasure to witness the joy Alan Eustace exhibited when he was informed at the end of his enthralling presentation that the FAI had ratified his record claims as submitted through the FAI Official Observer, Jimmy Hayhurst.

World Air Games invitations have been sent to NACs. Responses have been slow coming back to the FAI office, which is not surprising as the schedule has been under review by the organizers. I understand it to be almost finalized and ready for publication, probably by the time you get this Newsletter.

It has been an unfortunate few weeks, with the loss of two regular FCE competitors in skydiving accidents - Michael Vaughan of Australia and Jessica Edgington of the USA. On behalf of IPC, my sympathy and condolences go out to their families and many friends among the skydiving community.

Indoor Skydiving Committee Deputy Chair, Ron Miasnikov, has been working on a bid document specifically aimed at tunnel operators. In many, if not most cases, tunnel operators have no relationship with NACs and this brings a new dimension to the table.

Until next time,
Blue skies, stay safe

Graeme Windsor, IPC President

4. FAI NEWS

FAI is now calling for nominations for the FAI-Breitling Awards for 2015: The Breitling Milestone Trophy and the Breitling Youngster Award.

Both awards will be presented in September at the Awards Ceremony of the FAI General Conference in Rotterdam (Netherlands), where the winners will be invited and hosted by Breitling.

The Breitling Milestone Trophy is reserved for an individual or a group of individuals having achieved a significant milestone, technological step or invention in aeronautics or astronautics (first flight, new technology, etc.) during the previous year and that might contribute to future developments, especially in the practice of air sports.

The Breitling Youngster Award is reserved for a youngster who, during the previous 12 months and before the date of his 26th birthday:

- * Achieved an outstanding sporting performance. This means a performance which is considered by the nominating authority as beyond the normal level of performance compared to what can usually be done, or
- * Excelled in a certain area of his sport and is considered as a reference, or
- * Significantly contributed to the development and promotion of aeronautics or astronautics.

Both awards were created in 2013. Since then, the Breitling Milestone Trophy was awarded to Copenhagen Suborbitals which designed, built and launched the world's first amateur-built full size rocket with full computer control and steering. The Breitling Youngster Award honoured Robert Rizk, a 14 years old boy who won the title of Advanced National Champion in Glider Aerobatics, and Ryan Campbell, who completed a solo around the world flight at the age of 19 years.

We would like to draw your attention to the fact that the deadline for the receipt of nominations is 31 May 2015. Further details regarding the FAI-Breitling Awards, including the nomination process and eligibility, can be found on the dedicated FAI website's page <<http://www.fai.org/awards/fai-breitling-awards>>.

We are looking forward to receiving brilliant applications!

FAI Environmental Commission

The FAI Environmental Commission has been acting quietly for years, considering and preparing advice for all sporting and recreational aviators. The original challenge was to provide the basics for establishing a code, a presence on the FAI website and setting up standards for air sports environmentally friendly activities.

When these tasks were completed, one might think that EnvC just has to wait for some opportunities to arise to speak of birds and flowers alongside our beautiful flying sites. It may not be the case.

Discover what's new in terms of environmental issues in the first newsletter of the FAI Environmental Commission. You will find the pdf format enclosed and you can reach it directly at: http://www.fai.org/downloads/envc/envc\_newsletter\_april\_2015.

5. SPORTING LICENCES

As we draw nearer to the various competitions which are scheduled Delegates are reminded that competitors must have valid Sporting Licences. The NAC must enter the competitor's details on the FAI Sporting Licence Database. When the competitors arrive at a competition the FAI Controller checks the database to ensure that the competitor is entered. The onus for entering competitions on the Sporting Licence Database rests with the NAC of the Competitor's country.

You will be managing your data through a website the FAI has set up for this purpose.

The address of this website is <http://sportinglicences.fai.org/>.

The full guide to the use of the Sporting Licence Database can be found on the FAI website, under Documents, Sporting Licences.

Every IPC Delegate must ensure that his/her country's parachuting competitors are entered onto the database.

6. TECHNICAL & SAFETY

The image on the right is from the 2013 Safety Report Presentation.

Tackiness/Stickness with Parachute Containers

Instances of this problem have been reported to the T&S Committee. It should be noted that the containers were of different manufacture, not from one maker only.

Owners of any equipment are advised that they must ensure that all equipment being used is airworthy and is stored in a proper and suitable environment.

It has been noted that at the early stages of degradation the material may appear like 'glowing silk'. The next step is that the material may be 'slightly sticky' and finally it may be 'very sticky'.

Close examination by a Rigger, especially when repacking a reserve, may identify the degradation process at an early stage.

2014 Safety Report

8. SKYDIVING MUSEUM & HALL OF FAME

We're Building a Central Collection Point for Skydiving's History

April 17, 2015 ... An online databank exploring the use of parachutes, beginning with the earliest attempts to slow a man's descent from high places, is under construction at <http://Skydiving-Encyclopedia.com>. More than 850 separate articles have been uploaded to The Encyclopedia of All Things Skydiving website, and more are added every week. The website is a publicly searchable research tool that will serve future generations of aviation enthusiasts who have an historical interest in parachutes and the people who use them for sport. Preview and testing began in January when the link was publicized on social media and news outlets frequented by the skydiving community. To date, the site has been viewed by more than 40,000 people representing 50 countries. A membership function and collaborative “wiki” software enables visitors to comment, add new articles, correct inaccuracies and otherwise participate in building a valuable and accessible archive of sport parachuting's collective history.

The site's content includes technical articles, anecdotes, pictures, reminisces and biographies of the sport's notables, past and present. Articles are collected, organized and posted under the supervision of Madden (Pat) Works, longtime skydiving author, and website administrator Mary Todd. They intend to grow the scope of the project by encouraging others with an interest in skydiving—parachute equipment designers, enthusiasts of the sport's many disciplines, aerial photographers, jump pilots, etc.—to add informed content in their areas of specialty. All new content, corrections and suggestions submitted for consideration are reviewed and approved before they are added to the website.

Military parachuting is a currently popular category, as are personal profiles on some of the sport's leading personalities written by authors Brian Giboney (for Parachutist Magazine) and Robin Heid (for the now-defunct Skydiving Magazine.) The Encyclopedia of All Things Skydiving is a personal project initiated by Pat Works (USPA D-1813), who, as a pro bono advisor to the Skydiving Museum's Board of Trustees, has written on a broad range of topics that tell the history of parachutes and sport skydiving. The WIKI site also has a link to the Skydiving Museum's "eMuseum" function that enumerates the collection of artefacts, documents and other "in-kind" donations from skydivers around the world. eMuseum listings represent what could be displayed when the Skydiving Museum achieves funding sufficient to open the doors at a physical location.

The eMuseum database and moderated wiki, along with an "old-timers" video interview project that currently exists on the Eternal Friends of Skydiving's YouTube channel, are projects of the Museum's Accessions and Curatorial Committee under the direction of trustee and curator Dan Poynter.

About the Skydiving Museum

The purpose of the Skydiving Museum is to recognize and promote the sport of skydiving through public education and awareness; recognize the contribution to skydiving by its participants, suppliers and supporters; capture forever the history of the sport via its events, equipment, and personalities; and enhance aviation safety.
